Philadelphia Redevelopment Authority’s Percent for Art Program. This project is being supported by Mural Arts Philadelphia, the Philadelphia Chinatown Development Corporation, and the Philadelphia Chinatown Development Corporation, Mural Arts Philadelphia, and the

In the coming months, the artists will be inviting the public to participate in:

from you will help them generate images and designs for the artwork.

by sharing your stories and histories, your experiences and ideas. What they learn

The artists want help from the public in developing their theme. You can help them

Future.”

inside the building. The artists will build on the theme of “The Past Supporting the two murals for the building. One mural will be on an exterior wall, the other will be

Asian artists to create

Philadelphia Chinatown Development Corporation, Mural Arts Philadelphia, and

T o mark the significance of the Crane building, three organizations - the

For more information, please go to:

future.

In the coming months, the artists will be inviting the public to participate in:

from you will help them generate images and designs for the artwork.

by sharing your stories and histories, your experiences and ideas. What they learn

The artists want help from the public in developing their theme. You can help them

Future.”

inside the building. The artists will build on the theme of “The Past Supporting the two murals for the building. One mural will be on an exterior wall, the other will be

Asian artists to create

Philadelphia Chinatown Development Corporation, Mural Arts Philadelphia, and

T o mark the significance of the Crane building, three organizations - the

For more information, please go to:

future.

In the coming months, the artists will be inviting the public to participate in:

from you will help them generate images and designs for the artwork.

by sharing your stories and histories, your experiences and ideas. What they learn

The artists want help from the public in developing their theme. You can help them

Future.”

inside the building. The artists will build on the theme of “The Past Supporting the two murals for the building. One mural will be on an exterior wall, the other will be

Asian artists to create

Philadelphia Chinatown Development Corporation, Mural Arts Philadelphia, and

T o mark the significance of the Crane building, three organizations - the

For more information, please go to:

future.

In the coming months, the artists will be inviting the public to participate in:

from you will help them generate images and designs for the artwork.

by sharing your stories and histories, your experiences and ideas. What they learn

The artists want help from the public in developing their theme. You can help them

Future.”

inside the building. The artists will build on the theme of “The Past Supporting the two murals for the building. One mural will be on an exterior wall, the other will be

Asian artists to create

Philadelphia Chinatown Development Corporation, Mural Arts Philadelphia, and

T o mark the significance of the Crane building, three organizations - the

For more information, please go to:

future.

In the coming months, the artists will be inviting the public to participate in:

from you will help them generate images and designs for the artwork.

by sharing your stories and histories, your experiences and ideas. What they learn

The artists want help from the public in developing their theme. You can help them

Future.”

inside the building. The artists will build on the theme of “The Past Supporting the two murals for the building. One mural will be on an exterior wall, the other will be

Asian artists to create

Philadelphia Chinatown Development Corporation, Mural Arts Philadelphia, and

T o mark the significance of the Crane building, three organizations - the

For more information, please go to:

future.

In the coming months, the artists will be inviting the public to participate in:

from you will help them generate images and designs for the artwork.

by sharing your stories and histories, your experiences and ideas. What they learn

The artists want help from the public in developing their theme. You can help them

Future.”

inside the building. The artists will build on the theme of “The Past Supporting the two murals for the building. One mural will be on an exterior wall, the other will be

Asian artists to create

Philadelphia Chinatown Development Corporation, Mural Arts Philadelphia, and

T o mark the significance of the Crane building, three organizations - the

For more information, please go to:

future.

In the coming months, the artists will be inviting the public to participate in:

from you will help them generate images and designs for the artwork.

by sharing your stories and histories, your experiences and ideas. What they learn

The artists want help from the public in developing their theme. You can help them

Future.”

inside the building. The artists will build on the theme of “The Past Supporting the two murals for the building. One mural will be on an exterior wall, the other will be

Asian artists to create

Philadelphia Chinatown Development Corporation, Mural Arts Philadelphia, and

T o mark the significance of the Crane building, three organizations - the

For more information, please go to:

future.

In the coming months, the artists will be inviting the public to participate in:

from you will help them generate images and designs for the artwork.

by sharing your stories and histories, your experiences and ideas. What they learn

The artists want help from the public in developing their theme. You can help them

Future.”

inside the building. The artists will build on the theme of “The Past Supporting the two murals for the building. One mural will be on an exterior wall, the other will be

Asian artists to create

Philadelphia Chinatown Development Corporation, Mural Arts Philadelphia, and

T o mark the significance of the Crane building, three organizations - the

For more information, please go to:

future.

In the coming months, the artists will be inviting the public to participate in:

from you will help them generate images and designs for the artwork.

by sharing your stories and histories, your experiences and ideas. What they learn

The artists want help from the public in developing their theme. You can help them

Future.”

inside the building. The artists will build on the theme of “The Past Supporting the two murals for the building. One mural will be on an exterior wall, the other will be

Asian artists to create

Philadelphia Chinatown Development Corporation, Mural Arts Philadelphia, and

T o mark the significance of the Crane building, three organizations - the

For more information, please go to:

future.

In the coming months, the artists will be inviting the public to participate in:

from you will help them generate images and designs for the artwork.

by sharing your stories and histories, your experiences and ideas. What they learn

The artists want help from the public in developing their theme. You can help them

Future.”

inside the building. The artists will build on the theme of “The Past Supporting the two murals for the building. One mural will be on an exterior wall, the other will be

Asian artists to create

Philadelphia Chinatown Development Corporation, Mural Arts Philadelphia, and

T o mark the significance of the Crane building, three organizations - the

For more information, please go to:

future.

In the coming months, the artists will be inviting the public to participate in:

from you will help them generate images and designs for the artwork.

by sharing your stories and histories, your experiences and ideas. What they learn

The artists want help from the public in developing their theme. You can help them

Future.”

inside the building. The artists will build on the theme of “The Past Supporting the two murals for the building. One mural will be on an exterior wall, the other will be

Asian artists to create

Philadelphia Chinatown Development Corporation, Mural Arts Philadelphia, and

T o mark the significance of the Crane building, three organizations - the

For more information, please go to:

future.

In the coming months, the artists will be inviting the public to participate in:

from you will help them generate images and designs for the artwork.

by sharing your stories and histories, your experiences and ideas. What they learn

The artists want help from the public in developing their theme. You can help them

Future.”

inside the building. The artists will build on the theme of “The Past Supporting the two murals for the building. One mural will be on an exterior wall, the other will be

Asian artists to create

Philadelphia Chinatown Development Corporation, Mural Arts Philadelphia, and

T o mark the significance of the Crane building, three organizations - the

For more information, please go to:

future.